

NORTH CAROLINA LAW REVIEW

Volume 20 | Number 4

Article 7

6-1-1942

Book Notes

North Carolina Law Review

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarship.law.unc.edu/nclr>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

North Carolina Law Review, Book Notes, 20 N.C. L. REV. 464 (1942).

Available at: <http://scholarship.law.unc.edu/nclr/vol20/iss4/7>

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by Carolina Law Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in North Carolina Law Review by an authorized editor of Carolina Law Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact law_repository@unc.edu.

BOOK NOTES

Federal Administrative Law. By F. Trowbridge vom Baur. Chicago: Callaghan and Company. 1941. 2 vol. $15.00.

A two volume pocket-supplemented treatise on administrative law with particular emphasis on principles of judicial review of administrative decrees.

The Superior Court Diary of William Samuel Johnson—1772-1773. American Legal Records: Vol. IV. Edited by John T. Farrell. Washington, D. C.: The American Historical Association. 1942. Pp. lxxv, 293.

A collection of 228 cases drawn from the private notes of a famous American, signer of the Declaration of Independence, prominent jurist, and successful lawyer, this carefully edited volume gives a graphic picture of the day-to-day Pre-Revolutionary activities of the important trial court of the State of Connecticut.

The Judicial Power of the United States. By Robert J. Harris. Louisiana State University Press. 1941. Pp. ix, 238. $2.50.

A well-integrated and enlightened presentation of the present state of the law and background of the federal judicial power.

Administrative Regulation of Private Enterprise. The Annals: May 1942. Edited by John Perry Horlacher. Philadelphia: The American Academy of Political and Social Science. 1942. $2.00.

This issue of "The Annals" is a compendium of studies on administrative regulation in private enterprise by a select group of prominent students of political science and economics.

Corporate Dividends. By Donald Kehl. New York: The Ronald Press. 1941. Pp. xi, 267. $7.50.

Essentially a manual or hornbook on the law of corporate dividends, this book explores nearly every subject involving dividends and gives a brief discussion and reappraisal of existing concepts of dividend law.

Law and Peace in International Relations. By Hans Kelsen. Cambridge: Harvard University Press. 1942. Pp. xi, 181. $2.00.

In this book, containing the Oliver Wendell Holmes Lectures of 1940-41, Mr. Kelsen analyzes the possibilities of a centralized organization with the aim of World Peace based on either a league of nations or an international court, discussing from the viewpoint of a legalist and political scientist the advantages and weaknesses of each as illuminated by the experiences and failures of the League and World Court at Geneva.

The Cheyenne Way. Conflict and Case Law in Primitive Jurisprudence. By K. N. Llewellyn and E. Adamson Hoebel. Norman, Okla.: University of Oklahoma Press. 1941. Pp. x, 360. $3.00.

Professors Llewellyn and Hoebel, lawyer and anthropologist respectively, here present a case study of law as developed and applied among the Cheyenne Indians. Through such studies of primitive legal systems the authors seek to illuminate certain factors which play as vital a part in any juristic method as courts and rules of law themselves.

Public Personnel Administration. Revised edition. By William E. Mosher and J. Donald Kingsley. New York: Harper and Brothers. 1941. Pp. 671. $5.00.

A progressive, comprehensive, and constructive approach to procedures, policies, programs, and problems in public administration, this book is designed primarily to aid employment directors, government personnel officers, and applicants for civil service posts.

Attorneys at Law. By James Reid Parker. New York: Doubleday, Doran and Company. 1941. Pp. x, 247. $2.00.

A satirical and humorous collection of "diverting sketches" of the members of a fictional New York law firm.

Administrative Law. Its Growth, Procedure, and Significance. By Roscoe Pound. Pittsburgh: University of Pittsburgh Press. 1942. Pp. x, 138.

In these four lectures delivered under the auspices of the School of Law of the University of Pittsburgh, Justice Pound discusses the rise of administrative justice and its prospect in our shifting legal system, present and future.

Municipal Management. By Thomas Harrison Reed. New York: McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc. 1941. Pp. 665. $4.00.

A guidebook on city management, this study of administration and practice in all units of local government is of primary interest as a manual for municipal officials.

So You Are Going to be a Witness! By Alexander Rose. New York: Institute Press. 1941. Pp. 223. $2.00.

Well presented and capably discussed information on courtroom mistakes a lawyer and his witness might avoid.

A Bibliography of the Writings of Roscoe Pound. By Franklyn Christopher Setaro. Cambridge: Harvard University Press. 1942. Pp. vii, 193. $3.00. .

This bibliography contains Mr. Pound's printed books, addresses, papers, and essays before July 1, 1940, and descriptions of his writings on law and legal education, his most prominent briefs before the Nebraska Bar, and a number of his writings on general educational subjects; it also furnishes a list of the writings about Mr. Pound and his works.

Military Law. By Frederick M. Stern. New York: Atlantic Publishing Company. 1942. 3 vol. $12.50 (pre-publication price—cloth bound).

An authoritative presentation of the rules and regulations of military law, this text promises to be the first of its kind and calibre printed in the United States since 1920.

The Regulation of Stock Exchange Members. By Raymond Vernon. New York: Columbia University Press. 1941. Pp. xvi, 152. $2.00.

This study by the senior financial statistician of the Securities and Exchange Commission presents significant data on control of stock exchange members and points out the problems on which additional statistics should be obtained in the interest of wiser regulation.

V. LAMAR GUDGER, JR.